

For the past 27 years, I have regularly participated in Decision Sciences Institute conferences. DSI has connected me with outstanding scholars, academic peers, and friends that have made a lasting impact on my professional career. In recent years, I have had the opportunity to introduce Decision Sciences Institute to the next generation of doctoral students. Several of my students have found assistant professor positions via DSI conference service. Decision Sciences Institute is an incubator for knowledge dissemination, career development, and future leaders of management education. Thanks a million, DSI!

Ling Li, PhD.; University professor, Eminent Scholar, and Chair of Department of IT and Decision Sciences, Old Dominion University.