

HEADLINE NEWS: U.S. signs NAFTA with Canada & Mexico; Hurricane Andrew hits FL

Officers

President: William C. Perkins President-Elect: Larry P Ritzman Past President: Robert Markland Secretary: Betty J. Whitten

> Treasurer: Terry R. Rakes Vice Presidents

> > Belva Jones Cooley

Lester A. Digman

Carl W. Gooding

Chan K. Hahn

Jack C. Hayya

Lee J. Krajewski

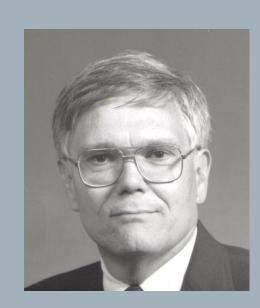

Michael J. Maggard

Roy B. Martin

C.R. Michael Parent

Michale J. Showalter

Executive Director - Carol Latta

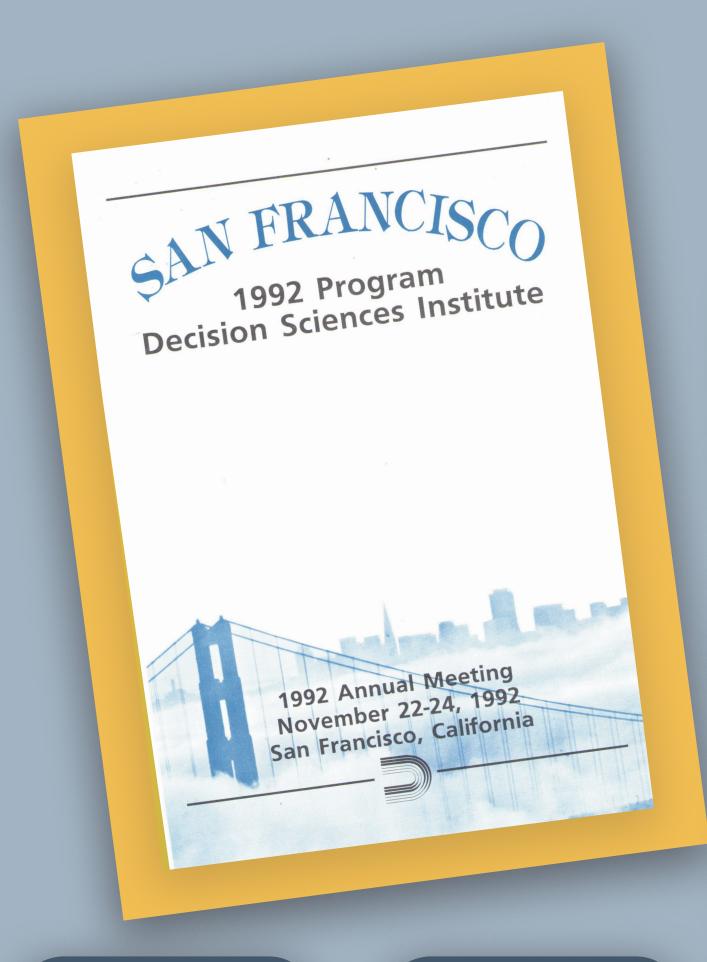

William C. Perkins

Regular membership dues now at $54. Student fee at $12.

Board begins Discussion on International Regions

Due to the interest generated by the Brussels Meeting, the Board eyes establishment of international regions to extend DSI's scope and breadth.

Distinguished Service Award Harvey J. Brightman

DSI Fellow Chan K. Hahn

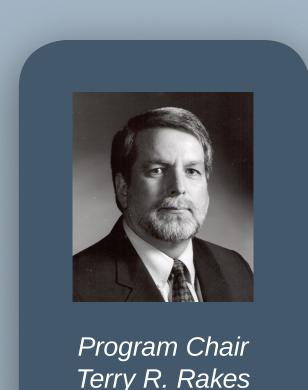

John C. Anderson

DSI Fellow Marion G. Sobol

DSI Fellow Urban Wemmerlov

Best Interdisciplinary Paper Award

Outstanding Paper Award Winners During the paper review process, twenty-eight papers were nominated for award consideration. A Speech Interaction Model and Methodology A second evaluation of those semifinalists by a for Assessing Group Dynamics during System committee of eighteen reviewers resulted in the Charles R. Franz, University of Missouri selection of eleven finalists, and ultimately in K. Gregory Jin, Western Connecticut State selection of the three outstanding paper award winners. The award-winning papers and their times on the program are listed below. Best Theoretical/Empirical Research Paper Award Representing Process and Group Technology

MD-MIS-023 (Monday, 3:30 p.m., Pacific Best Application Paper Award Factors Contributing to the Successful Implementation of Customer-Based Layouts with a Closed Network Queueing Model Inter-Organizational Systems S. Christian Albright, Indiana University
F. Robert Jacobs, Indiana University Varun Grover, University of South Carolina James T. C. Teng, University of South Carolina John R. Willems, Indiana University TD-MIS-029 (Tuesday, 3:30 p.m., Pacific MB-POM-134 (Monday, 10:00 a.m., Pacific

Doctoral Dissertation Finalists

Two finalists have been chosen in the Doctoral Customer Contact: Meaning and Implications for Operations Management Deborah L. Kellogg, University of Colorado at Denver Supervisor: Richard B. Chase, University of Southern California

Nonconvex Fractional Programming Susan Wright Palocsay, James Madison Supervisor: James E. Falk, The George Washington University

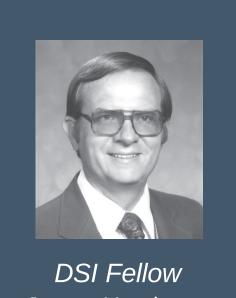

Instructional Innovation Award Finalists Four submissions have been chosen in the Instructional Innovation Award Competition, co-sponsored by Alpha Iota Delta, the national honorary in the decision sciences, South-Western Publishing Company/boyd & fraser Publishing Co., and the Decision Sciences Institute. The finalists will present their submissions in a special session on Sunday, November 22, 1992, at 10 a.m. in Pacific Concourse K. The finalists, in alphabetical order by last name of lead author, and their papers follow. Demonstrating Interfirm Relationships in the Classroom: The Supply Chain Game

D. M. Dilts, University of Waterloo HyperCase: An Interactive Hypertext-Based Microcomputer Case for Teaching Systems Analysis and Design Julie E. Kendall, Rutgers Universit

Kenneth E. Kendall, Rutgers University

Richard L. Baskerville, SUNY-Binghamton Teaching Systems Management with a Computer Based Multi-Discipline Multi-Program Approach: An Application in Integrated Logistics Systems Management Kant Rao, The Pennsylvania State University Alan J. Stenger, The Pennsylvania State Haw-Jan Wu, Whittier College Clinical Studies in Teaching Operations Management: An Experiment in Industry-University Partnership Paul M. Swamidass, Auburn University

Doctoral Dissertation and Instructional Innovation Finalists, Outstanding Paper Winners

James Hershauer

DSI Fellow Basheer Khumawala